

GCC Names New Area Superintendent

Ghilotti Construction Company is pleased to announce the promotion of Nick Basich to Area Superintendent for the American Canyon Division. Mr. Basich joined the GCC team in June of 2000 as a Project Superintendent to oversee the massive Sears Point (Infineon) Raceway Modernization project. As Area Superintendent, he will be responsible for coordinating all field operations for the American Canyon Division. Starting as a laborer in the general engineering construction industry over 35 years ago, he has progressed from an operator engineer to running small and large crews.

In addition to overseeing the redevelopment of the former Navy base on Mare Island in Vallejo, Mr. Basich currently manages 7 projects, to include Sutter Solano Hospital, Napa Junction, and the Orchards and Hiddenbrooke subdivisions. Mr. Basich works directly with the Area Manager, Mark Bower, to ensure the efficiency of operations in the Napa & Solano Counties and surrounding regions. The American Canyon Division officially opened in June of 2004.

Ghilotti Construction Company, headquartered in Santa Rosa, California, is a considered a leader in the general engineering construction industry, with a depth of expertise in performing various private and commercial works – from commercial sites and subdivisions to wineries to major business campus expansions.
